TO PRESERVE FOR THE WORLD A LIVING SEMBLANCE OF A DYING RACE CALLS FOR THE BEST AN ARTIST CAN GIVE. WINOLD REISS SEEKS TO DO THIS FOR THE VANISHING AMERICAN. IN SELECTING HIS SUBJECTS AMONG THE THREE BRANCHES OF THE SIKSIKA OR BLACKFEET TRIBE HE HAS CHOSEN INDIANS RENOWNED FOR FORM AND FEATURE. KINDLY AND SIMPLE IN CHARACTER, STERN AND RUGGED IN PHYSICAL APPEARANCE THEY PRESENT A RARE CHALLENGE TO AN ARTIST FAITHFUL TO BOTH THE OUTER AND THE INNER EYE.

IN THE WINOLD REISS INDIAN PORTRAITS THIS CHALLENGE HAS BEEN MET. HE HAS FIXED FOR US THE ROVING BUFFALO HUNTER OF THE YESTERYEAR AS WELL AS THE FRIENDLY FARMER OF TODAY. HERE IS THE RESTLESS AGGRESSIVE NOMAD OF THE PLAINS, HERE TOO THE HARDWORKING INDIAN OF THE RESERVATIONS, WHERE THE DWINDLING TRIBAL REMNANTS OF THE LONG-FAMOUS BLACKFEET, BLOODS AND PIEGANS ARE NOW CONFINED.

WHEN THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES SOUGHT TO IMMORTALIZE AMERICA'S TYPICAL INDIAN CHIEF ON THE BUFFALO NICKEL IT SELECTED ONE OF WINOLD REISS'S SUBJECTS. THIS ARTIST SEES IN THESE INDIANS, WITH WHOM HE LOVES TO LIVE, SOMETHING OF THE STRENGTH AND GLORY OF PIONEER AMERICA. THE STEADY GLANCE, THE LUSTY SINEWS, THE WARM HANDCLASP, THE INDIFFERENCE TO PETTY LIMITATIONS OF TIME, OR SPACE, OR MONEY EXPRESS TO HIM A HAPPY CONTRAST WITH THE SOPHISTICATION OF OUR CITIES.

HERE, ON THESE WESTERN PLAINS, THE TRUE SPIRIT OF AMERICA STILL LIVES! CRUDE, UNCOUTH, UNEDUCATED THOUGH THEY BE, THESE WESTERN TRIBESMEN SPEAK A NOBLE LANGUAGE WHICH ONLY A TRUE ARTIST CAN APPRECIATE AND INTERPRET. TO SAY THAT WINOLD REISS HAS DONE HIS INDIAN FRIENDS NO INJUSTICE IN TRANSLATING THEM TO CANVAS IS TO GIVE HIM HIGH PRAISE.
